Though Sarah Sweeney, age 15, dreamed of becoming a supermodel, she had a long road ahead because she was nearly 100 pounds over the ideal modeling weight. Driven to pursue her dream, Sarah dieted, exercised, lost weight, and even graduated early from high school in order to move to New York City to sign with a top modeling agency. But in her effort to maintain the weight loss, she developed unhealthy habits and eventually succumbed to anorexia and bulimia to control her weight. Soon after her 20th birthday, Sarah passed away from complications from her eating disorders.

In this moving, poignant memoir, Sarah's mother, Rebecca Bigler, intertwines her own story with her daughter's. Rebecca reveals her Sarah's heart—both the dream of becoming a supermodel and the resulting devastation of the eating disorder that eventually cost Sarah her life. Despite the pain of losing a child, Rebecca discovers the hand of God on her life as he guides her to relentlessly pursue Sarah's Dream, a cautionary tale filled with hope and redemption.
