Excellent coaching resource for teams and myself
By Samuel Whiting

I have found these cards incredibly useful in both planned conversations and ad-hoc situations so far. I am still thinking new ways to utilise them in my day-to-day coaching. I have actually found them useful for my own problem solving away from my team also, which was an expected bonus. For an experienced coach or someone starting out as a coach or scrum-master I would recommend these whole heartedly. I have brought the Product Owner and retrospective cards too and I have found that they combine to make an effective tool, either in isolation from each other or when used together. Highly recommended!

These cards have a set of prompts to help re-frame tricky problems. I have already recommending them to budding ScrumMasters as they are a brilliant thinking tool. I think they also foster a deeper understanding of the ScrumMaster role and servant leadership more generally.
I am sure I will find myself reaching for them when I am stuck with a wicked problem or difficult situation.
Highly Recommend.

Great sets of questions
By Karl Scotland

As someone who loves help people think for themselves, by asking questions rather than giving answers, I love these cards. They're applicable to any role and process and I'm sure I'll find myself reaching for them when I'm looking for inspiration.
